Prepared Remarks

Marcus Reed, CEO: We entered the quarter focused on execution. Portfolio mix is shifting toward automation, preserving consolidated guidance despite mixed end markets.

Helen Wu, CFO: Q2 revenue was $1.78 billion and adjusted EPS was $2.24. We are updating investors on the full-year outlook.

Helen Wu, CFO: Our prior outlook was 2026 revenue of $7.1-$7.3 billion and adjusted EPS of $9.00-$9.40. We now expect 2026 revenue of $7.1-$7.3 billion and adjusted EPS of $9.00-$9.40.

Analyst Q&A;

Analyst: What is the primary driver behind the change or reaffirmation in guidance?

Marcus Reed: The most important factors are strong automation demand offsetting softer conventional industrial end markets.

Analyst: How should investors think about the durability of demand into 2027?

Marcus Reed: We are separating near-term execution effects from the longer-term demand environment and will continue to update investors as visibility improves.

Analyst: What are the key signposts for next quarter?

Helen Wu: Execution against operating milestones, customer timing, and margin progression are the most important signposts.
